

ABSTRACT

This study aims to find out how Ansor Legal Aid Institute as an intermediary actor in fighting for the welfare of honorary teachers and education personnel in Tasikmalaya Regency. This research is motivated by the lack of welfare received by honorary teachers and education personnel from the government. So that there is a collaboration between the Ansor Legal Aid Institute and the Teacher and Teacher Education Honorary Forum to encourage the issuance of regional regulations concerning the welfare of honorary teachers and legal assistance. Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs) / Non-Government Organizations (NGOs) are part of civil society, namely as a medium for intermediary actors (liaison) between the community and the government. The theory used in this study is the Intermediary Actor, Civil Society and New Social Movement. The method used in this study is a qualitative-descriptive research method with a case study approach. The location of this research is located in Tasikmalaya Regency, West Java.

The results show that the Ansor Legal Aid Institute is an intermediary actor and is a Non-Governmental Organization (NGO) as part of civil society, which often fills the public space of a democratic country. LBH Ansor aims to provide a legal aid service to the poor or underprivileged, blind and oppressed, especially in Tasikmalaya Regency. The effort made by LBH Ansor is to fight for welfare so that regional regulations on the welfare of honorary teachers are encouraged. Because basically the honorary teachers in Tasikmalaya Regency still don't feel they have received a sufficient welfare. So that if this welfare cannot be fulfilled by the government, teaching and learning activities will be paralyzed and without this welfare it will cause insincerity. Meanwhile, teaching and learning activities in schools are currently supported by the presence of honorary teachers who are more numerous than ASN in Tasikmalaya district. In addition, the Ansor Legal Aid Institute, in the launching of the MoU (Memorandum of Understanding), will provide legal assistance for honorary teachers and education personnel in Tasikmalaya Regency.
