Learning outcomes are the results obtained by students in learning. There are two factors that support student learning success, namely internal and external factors. The problem in this study is that learning outcomes are still low, there are still many students whose scores are below the KKM. The purpose of this study was to obtain information about the relationship between students' learning motivation and parents' socioeconomic status with learning outcomes of PJOK grade XI IPS students at SMA Negeri 5 Tasikmalaya City. The research method used is descriptive quantitative method. The research population was 84 students of class XI IPS in SMA Negeri 5 Kota Tasikmalaya, all of which were determined as samples using random sampling technique. The results of the first hypothesis research show that there is a positive and significant relationship between student motivation and learning outcomes of PJOK for class XI IPS students at SMAN 5 Tasikmalaya City with an r_{count} value of $0.6211 > r_{\text{table}} 0.2146$. The results of the second hypothesis test show that there is a positive and significant relationship between the socioeconomic status of parents and the learning outcomes of PJOK for class XI IPS students at SMAN 5 Tasikmalaya City with an r_{count} value of $0.2197 > r_{\text{table}} 0.2146$. The third hypothesis test shows that there is a significant relationship between students' learning motivation and parents' socioeconomic status with the learning outcomes of PJOK for class XI IPS students at SMAN 5 Tasikmalaya City with an F_{count} of $27.72 > F_{\text{table}} 3.11$.
